DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1,3-10,12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Whan-Tong et al in view of Shu et al. Whan-Tong et al discloses all of applicant's claimed invention except for the use of electrical energy storage and a microprocessor powered by a generator.

Shu et al discloses a self contained exercise device which does not require an outside power source by utilizing a generator, battery and microprocessor which is supplied energy. Given this teaching, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the Whan Tong device with a self contained energy source and generator for self-powered purposes.

As to claims 6 and 15, if not inherent, it would have been well within the purview of one skilled in the art to power the device via the battery for any desired predetermined time period.

Claims 2 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Whan-Tong et al in view of Shu et al as applied to claims 1 and 9 above, and further in view of Hampl.

Hampl discloses an exercise device having user foot supports 17, generators 10a and 19, battery 30a, and a three phase generator. Note figure 3. Hampl states:

Art Unit: 3764

"Generator 10 is a three phase generator having a permanent magnet armature and three stator windings of which only two stator windings 12 and 12' are illustrated.

In view of this teaching, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the Whan Tong et al elliptical device with a common three-phase generator.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed 2-22-05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The examiner agrees with the applicant that Whan-Tong doesn't teach the combination or use of a generator and electrical energy storage system in an elliptical exercise device. But applicant wrongly concludes that the rejection of claims 1-5 should be withdrawn. No where in the office action has the examiner applied a 102 rejection; the examiner has relied upon an obviousness type 103 rejection; therefore, the applicant's reasoning is not understood.

3. In response to applicant's argument that Shu and Whan_Tong don't teach combining together, the test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference; nor is it that the claimed invention must be expressly suggested in any one or all of the references. Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of the references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981).

Art Unit: 3764

4. In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

5. In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the examiner has applied Graham v. John Deere C reasoning :

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 3764

Please note the common nexus between the references applied. Both are directed towards exercise devices and therefore are analogous. Both utilize electrical energy means for use during exercise. Furthermore, it is generally well recognized in the exercise art to provide a generator and energy storage means for many purposes such as for use when electrical ac power is unavailable and to assist in providing an additional load.

6. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

Although Shu doesn't teach a movable guide nor a motivation to combine, it is improper to conclude that Shu teaches away from use with a movable guide.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
